Dear [REDACTED]

I have been asked by Locality to respond to the below.

I can clarify Children's Social Care did not remove [REDACTED] from your care. Upon receiving the initial referral Scarlett-Rose declined to return to your care and due to the circumstances it was agreed [REDACTED] would reside with Father whilst further assessments were completed only. Once the Social Worker had met with all parties and viewed the history it became apparent that [REDACTED] should be in your care as per the previous Court Order and there were no evidenced safeguarding concerns to prevent this care arrangement. All parties were advised to seek further legal advice and as you are aware a recommendation was made for further work regarding Scarlett-Rose's emotional being and identity needs.

Many Thanks

Sally

Hi

It goes without saying that my Solicitor is of course aware of all this and is of course continuing to tell because [REDACTED] is lying and that you did not remove [REDACTED] from my care. It is impossible for her to do when you continually refuse to clear this up. I have repeatedly asked for a letter to confirm that you did not remove [REDACTED] from my care and give her to her father with the strict instruction that he should never let me see her again. You have refused which has allowed [REDACTED] to manipulate a court case. My issue is clear Jade, and it is your responsibility to sort out. My issue is that [REDACTED] has convinced both the School and the courts that [REDACTED] was removed from my care by yourselves and he was given custody. My issue is that you have done nothing to clear this lie up and yet you are Aware of this lie. May I remind you that of a little something called conspiracy to commit contempt of court. That means that as soon as you were aware that [REDACTED] lied to the courts and told them that you removed [REDACTED] from my care it became your duty to clear this up with the court. Saffron was made aware of this when she was given the current court order. The judge ruled based on inaccurate information [REDACTED] fed to the courts. The courts can clearly not act in the best interest of my child if they are acting on inaccurate information. May I also remind you that social care Has a responsibility to protect my child from psychological and emotional abuse. May I remind you parental alienation is a form of psychological and emotional abuse. That does not need to be extra abuse taking part, but the act of parental alienation its self is the abuse. You and your colleagues Continually allowing [REDACTED] to break the law using your reputation to do so is your responsibility to clear up. As I have said I have the backing of some of your colleagues and I am willing to take this higher if you do not start acting within social care framework. I am requesting that this case is looked over by a manager, the entirety of the case. I would then like a detailed report as to which decisions were made when and why.

Regards

[REDACTED]
